

61/41

ALPS TEST GLIDERS

Gliding is fascinating everywhere; in the Alps it gives the biggest thrill of all. Little wonder the new German Alpine Gliding School has a flood of applicants wishing to learn the sport at its best. No need to wait about for air currents; they're blowing 24 hours a day, for those with the skill to navigate them. And obviously pilots without that skill had better learn harp-playing while there's time.

Stunt pilots visited the school, to show the new boys just how much a glider will do in the right hands.

For those who yearn for sport with a spice of danger and all the thrill in the world, the Alpine Gliding School's just the ticket.