

CAR LAUNDRY

At a garage in London's West End, Stirling Moss drives in to inaugurate a device every motorist will welcome - a car-cleaning installation that'll make a car spotless, inside and out, in three to five minutes. First, the inside - with a giant vacuum cleaner.

Then into the machine, which is built on production line principles. At full capacity, it can turn out one clean car every fifteen seconds.

And it doesn't only get washed, either. After it's been wiped dry, it gets polished, too. All within the five minutes. Cost of the installation, over £25,000.

And Stirling takes over his car, as bright as a showroom model. Tell you the truth, we thought it looked clean to start with, but that's hardly the machine's fault.
