

"BUTCH" TAKES A HOLIDAY!

69. It's down to the sea in ships on weekend afternoons to get away from it all. And Butch here is no different than any other busy executive searching for the serenity of fishing from one's own...uh...BOAT? Full of vim and vigor and vitality, he parks his compact, compact, near a most inviting lake and delicately lifts HIS yacht from the trailer. His friends said it would'd float, but Butch is a very determined fisherman. Well..he's all set now. His rod in hand, he steps down..down..down. Oh, well, guess it's just one-a those days.