Miss Grace Field,

Film House,
Wardour Street, W.1.

15th June, 1961.

Dear Miss Field,

This is to give you notice well in advance that on the 26th October, 1961, a large and remarkable International Exhibition of modern (from 1890 to 1961) jewellery will be opened to the public in the huge and beautiful rooms of the Goldsmiths' Hall, Foster Lane, Cheapside, London, E.C.2. The exhibition will end on the 2nd December.

This is the first time that Britain has staged an exhibition of this kind and there will be at a conservative estimate, three million pounds worth of jewellery on display, including a large number of interesting pieces which have never been exhibited in public before, some of which will have been borrowed from the private collections of famous or aristocratic persons.

Yours sincerely,

Kenneth Grenville Myer
