MORE IRISH FOR CONGO

Where will you find better soldiers than the Irish? That was the thought of onlookers at McKee Barracks, Dublin, as Premier Lemass reviewed the 36th Battalion.

At Dublin Airport the men finished with the parade ground for time being. The American Globemasters were airlifting them to the Congo. 700 men of the 36th Battalion were going there to join the United Nations force, which is trying to restore peace in that troubled country. The Republic of Ireland, is backing UNO to the hilt.

Returning to the Congo was General Sean McKeown, U.N. commander in chief out there. He's had enough of it and will resign at the end of the year.
