

ANIMALS THROW XMAS PARTY

Rex had a bright idea. Why not have a Christmas party for animals. To his friends on the farm he passed on the idea, obtained approval, and went back indoors to suggest it to his rival, the cat. Of course, Rex is no ordinary dog, he's a French film star, who's appeared in a hundred films. Puss was a bit jealous, but with the farmer's help, and the strong support of every other animal on the premises, the party was obviously going to go with a swing.

Positively the only champagne drinking chimp in captivity.

What's a party without games? Let's see who can paint the best picture? You know, this artist's going to rival Picasso, if he's not careful.

Reward for the painter? Why not, says Polly? Maybe a cigarette's the thing.

The alsatian may have started the party, but undoubtedly the chimp stole the picture.