An Aer Lingus Boeing jet landed at Dublin Airport bringing two welcome visitors from England. To greet them were the Lord and Lady Mayoress of Dublin. The visitors were Sir Frederick and Lady Hoare, Lord and Lady Mayoress of London. It was the first time a Chief Magistrate of the City of London had paid an official visit to Dublin since 1893.

Peter Ustinov and Diana Wynyard crossed by the same aircraft, but the Lord Mayoral party attracted all the notice. A motor cycle escort conducted the distinguished visitors into the city.

During his stay the Lord Mayor of London will call upon President de Valera and Mr. Sean Lemass.
