

DR. CHARLIE CHAPLIN

A solemn procession makes its way through the streets of Oxford, where an honorary degree of Doctor of Letters of that University is to be bestowed on Mr. Charles Chaplin, that elder statesman of immortal slapstick. Other well-known figures being honoured include artist Graham Sutherland...

Violinist Yehudi Menuhin...

And American Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Rusk.

Speaking of Charlie, the Public Orator reminds the distinguished gathering in the Town Hall that he has invited our laughter in many ways - including "per bracas illas fluitantes, exiguum denique labri superioris ornamentum". And that is Latin for baggy trousers and a toothbrush moustache.
