

U.S. MARINES GO ON WAR MANOEUVRES.

Uncle Sam calls them Soldiers of the Sea, and over two thousand of the first Marine-Brigade, from Quantico Virginia, go aboard the battleships ARKANSAS... NEW YORK.... AND TEXAS, to sail southward for about eight weeks, playing at war in the Caribbean.

Brigadier General Smith comes aboard. He's in charge of the Brigade.

If hostilities should spread to the Western Hemisphere, these are the men who would be the first to see action.
