WINGS OVER FRANCE.

What are the women of France doing to help on the War?
Here is the superb answer. In a hundred factories they're tackling the jobs the men have left behind.... Building the wings for the Air Force of France.

With perfectly trained hands and skilled brains, they're turning out the complicated mechanical parts of fighters and bombers. And what with these modern fashions, you don't really know whether you're addressing a lady till you reach the top.

Here are the women of France who have left the home behind.

Here in their faces is the will to win.

If one were a man... My hat ...there is a man.

Another wing... another plane is complete... ready to go up and do battle with the Messerschmitts and the Heinkels.. Another day's work is well done.
