WAR ON THE ARCTIC CIRCLE.

The Magnificent Finns have won their greatest victory so far... in the war for freedom on the Far Northern Front.

One whole Russian Division has been completely destroyed.

Much of the credit for Finland's success must go to her Commander in Chief General Wallenius. We see him interviewing more Russian prisoners, to learn first hand of the plight of the mighty red army... whose spirit has been broken. But Finland's troubles are by no means over. As the Russians retreat from the arctic villages.... even if they can't win they can still burn and destroy.

But the greatest mistake of all.... is to think that Finland needs no ~~more~~ more help. Soon the snows will melt and the skis will be useless. Soon Russia will bring up reinforcements...
Finland desperately needs planes, guns and munitions.
How tragic, if her superb fighting spirit... should be starved for lack of supply. If the burning of her villages should lead in the end to the destruction of her freedom.
