IRISH CABBIES MEET IN PHOENIX PARK, DUBLIN

Hello you cabs, yes we said cabs. They and the cabbies parade in the cabman's derby in Phoenix Park, Dublin, just one of those old Irish customs. A load of grain and oats on board, everything's ready for the inspection. He might have been a derby winner if the wind had only blown the other way, but who cares, not his old driver anyway. Dublin's Lord Mayor Mrs. Clark brings some friends to see the cowboys start off. The cabbies are coming heora heora. The Lord Mayor presents the prize to the winner and then they all go for a joy ride.
