

MIAMI OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

It's the Miami Open Final with Jud McSpaden of Boston leading off followed by Henry Pickard, the year's top money winner. Slamming Sammy Snead isn't conceded much chance by the wise acres of the sports world, and the word's gone out to watch Goulder. When the twice national champion moves along the fairways the gallery's right on his heels. Goulder plays perfect golf all the way, but perfect isn't good enough with Snead catching fire from the start, dropping pars, birdies and eagles all over the premises. Many of the three thousand fans are following the favourites, expecting to see Goulder, McSpaden or Pickard win, plenty are with Byron Nelson, National Open Champion, but he is off his game. Suddenly word gets around that Snead is ablaze and the crowd rush to the 18th for the finish. Sam is up there winning the hard way, with a mere nine under par.
