THEIR MAJESTIES WITH THE TROOPS.

The King and Queen spend a day with the men of the Aldershot Command.

The Men are happybut just a little bit under the weather.

At one point Their Majesties walk three quarters of a mile, along a road lined on both sides with troops. Time and again they stop to greet Officers and express their appreciation of all that they are seeing. But the men have their own way of saying "Thank you for coming".
