More British Troops arrive in France.

The British Expeditionary Force, gains in strength, as time moves on. These pictures of the recent arrival in France of a large number of British Tommies, gives weight to the Prime Minister's statement that "already, we have a million and a quarter men under arms".....

These men are made of the same stuff as their fathers; who also (during 1914-18) went to France to fight a ruthless enemy - - an enemy which, this time, must be beaten so effectively that she will never again rise to torture the world (and particularly the weaker peoples) with cold blooded aggression, and savagery.

Meantime the boys already over there, are by no means forgotten..... as witness a few of the mailbags bringing news from home. Thousands arrive each week.

Back again to see the cheery faces of the new arrivals..All happy at the prospect of doing their bit, in the big job ahead.
