SWEDEN SNOWBOUND.

It reminds us of the blue pencilled weather we had a few weeks back!
It is the district of Skane in Southern Sweden, where usually at this time, Spring is in the air. There's not much ~~for~~ "soring" in anybody or anything just now. Villages are isolated, houses buried and roads impassable. If you want to go anywhere you just stay at home and send a postcard. We have it on impeccable authority that words froze on the tongues of the people, and had to be thawed out, to be heard. Its a tall story, ^{unbelievable} ~~unbelievable~~ - but then, so are these pictures.
