

5-158700
PATHÉ GAZETTE: 40/23.

WITH THE B.E.F.

Practically every able bodied Frenchman is in the army so naturally the farmers are short of labour, that's where Tommy Atkins comes in. In his spare time he lends a hand to the farmer and his family, ploughing the fields as to the manner born. Just a little further proof of how the British troops have taken to the French farmers and peasants. They're always ready to help if anyone is in need of assistance, perhaps mademoiselle had something to do with it, I don't know.