

BLIGHTY ONES.

So they've come home, and these are the first newsreel pictures at one of the Base Hospitals somewhere in Britain. As you know from the official figures, there are not many wounded in battle, but quite a few accidents and normal illnesses. From this centre they are passed on if necessary to other hospitals for specialised treatment.

And when nurse has finished, he wants her to start all over again.

Here by the skill of medical science, they are placed on the road to recovery.
