MAKING SURE!

That depth charge.. a few days ago was dropped by an Armed French Patrol....attacking a German Submarine.... but the French Captain wasn't certain that he had found his mark. So he dropped a buoy at the spot where the attack had been made. Now, another French ship returns with deep sea diving apparatus... to find out whether the German submarine had been sunk....

Meanwhile the French Admiralty had made no official announcement about the attack.... They like us in Britain....value truth.... they make no claims....where there's any doubt.

Foot by foot the diver searches across the sea bottom... in the wake of his ship... and when he returns to the surface, he reports that he has found the German submarine.

Her fighting days are over, she lies still as death on the sea bottom... her hull the tomb of dead men.

The enemy has lost another weapon.... and we and our allies have taken another step towards victory.
