NORTH WESTERN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE.

All the world is watching the Allies North Western Expeditionary Force in Norway. But few people have heard about the difficulties that had to be overcome.... in equipping and transporting an army so quickly.... Here for instance are storm coats.... for the arctic conditions in mountainous Norway. They were designed by a famous explorer, and they'll keep the boys warm whatever happens. And now the veil of secrecy is lifted... we are allowed to show you the first pictures of our men and stores... at a British Port and going aboard for the North Western Front. Here too enormous problems had to be overcome. Equipment had to be loaded into small boxes so that it could be man handled on the Rocky Norwegian Coast. For remember, that coast was then still held by the enemy..... and our landings had often to be made under fire. Anyone who expects an immediate or spectacular victory in Norway, must be blind to the facts. Considering the difficulties, our armies are doing wonders. And they'll be doing a great deal more.
