

40/37

THOUSANDS HOMELESS AFTER GREAT FIRE.

In these amazing pictures we ~~show~~ show you one of the biggest fires of recent years. The major part of the city of Colon in Panama is blazing, a city of low lying wooden houses, fanned into intense heat by a high wind. Here you see a million pounds worth of property converted into a vast raging furnace.

Here you see the homes of ten thousand people, one third of the city, laid low.

~~It~~ All through the night the fire rages and grows. All gas and electricity is cut off from the City. In the end they have to call out the Army to help fight the flames.

And the next morning, one third of the city is a smoking ruin.

The red cross has to feed the refugees from the terror, has to build a tent city for ten thousand homeless.