CYPRIOI TROOPS OVER THERE.

The list grows daily, of men of the Empire who are at arms in Defence of Freedom. Now we hear of men, from the British Crown Colony of Cyprus: They have been formed into a small transport regiment, to carry stores and ammunition over rough ground which is impassable to motors. And they look smart.

They have left the sunny shores of their dream island in the Mediterranean, they have left the peace of sunlit waters.... to face the rigours of the western front. They too are playing their part.
