RE-EVACUATED CHILDREN.

For the second time since the outbreak of war, these boys and girls are taken out of danger zones.

Originally they came from London and Croydon; Now they are leaving Brighton and Hove in re-evacuation trains for inland reception areas.

But its not only the youngsters who are sent to places of safety. The kiddies see to it that such important people as favourite dolls and pets are included in the Government scheme, as well as themselves.

Well, what they may lose in reading, writing and arithmetic, they'll make up in geography.
