RUNNING THE GAUNTLET.

Behind a protective screen of sandbags, the cameraman scans the skies over the coast as Nazi planes make another attempt to bomb a British convoy. But the R.A.F. are on the look-out.

Suddenly one of the raiders opens up his bomb racks and death rains out of the clouds. Great spurts of water shoot up as the bombs fall wide of their mark. Master Liar Gobbels will claim another successful convoy raid; while Goering will get another Medal for claiming that all his pl-nes returned safely. But his arithmetic is about as mental as it is deficient in truth, as witness these latest pictures of yet another Nazi bomber added to our store of scrap metal.
