40/61:

Be ba goom, it's Blackpool. That's done it. I've given away information that might be of interest to chatterbugs. Down on the beach War Workers are enjoying a well earned rest in their "Go to it" efforts, so as to get their second wind and return full of ozone to their jobs. Its a very brief holiday, but all the old peace time donkey rides and side shows have popped up, and its just like old times again.

There's no mistaking those sands, and its grandnto see them full again. And Mum, dad and the kiddie are as happy as sandbags... pardon... sandboys.

BOMBER IN STREET.

Among the many Nazi planes brought down over this country, one of them ended up in a roadway somewhere, in a place I don't know. The remarkable thing about this crash is that not even a window was broken.

Now a Nazi "digs for victory"..... British victory
