KING AND QUEEN WITH INDIAN TROOPS

.....

The King Emperor and the Queen arrive at a Camp in the Midlands to inspect soldiers of the Royal Indian Army Corps.

Welcome to an honoured guest is symbolised in the ancient ceremony of Huzar. The proffered gold and silver pieces are first touched by the King Emperor and then remitted to the givers, at a sign from His Majesty.

These magnificent soldiers from India, are renowned for their fine physique, stately bearing, and intense loyalty to the crown.

Deep throated Huzars from the troops cheer their Majesties on their way.
