

440768720

ALCANTARA AT RIO.

Into the Harbour of Rio de Janeiro limps the ALCANTARA.
She is a merchantman converted into an Auxiliary Cruiser;
and today bears honourable scars.

ALCANTARA was attacked in South American waters by a Nazi sea raider well within the Western Hemisphere neutrality belt.

She put up a grand fight, but an unlucky shot crippled her engines.
Her attacker fled and ALCANTARA couldn't pursue her... which was just too bad.

Her crew are glad of a spell ashore, but they'll soon be "on the job" again! Meantime we wish them all jolly good health.