

PATHE GAZETTE: 40/68.

RUGBY "DOWN UNDER"

First inter-state Rugby League match of the season. The light blues of New South Wales meet the red jersied Queenslander's at the Sydney Cricket Ground. And from the kick-off the old rivals of the football field swing into speedy action. New South Wales winger tries for the line - pardon me. The ball moves across field. Now Queensland's bubbling over and they go down and they score. New South Wales comes storming back, watch for Stewart's sprint start, there he goes streaking for a try in a burst of speed he's over. Peer has it, onto Norman who runs like a threequarter, kick in field to Evans and the New South Wales flying machine hits top gear in a thrilling dash through to Findus who scores right between the posts. New South Wales go onto a terrific victory as the blue pack rolls on like a tank corps. and they score a try that makes the Queenslanders look as red as their jerseys.