HISTORIC MEETING.

The Canadian Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, is welcomed by President Roosevelt at Ogdensburg, New York, when he crossed the Canadian-United States border to ^{discuss} ~~discuss~~ joint defence of North America. Hands across the border became arms across the border, as President and Premier review an assembly of aircraft, armaments and men preparing for field manoeuvres. This historic meeting will further strengthen the bonds between the two great nations who pledge co-operation to ensure complete mutual security.

WINGS OVER AFRICA

The fine young pilots of the South African Air Force have struck a worthy blow for Britain in their North African War activities. True knights of the air, they are carrying the war into enemy territory. The wings of the Springbok are fast and strong.

South Africans in the Royal Air Force have given a splendid account of themselves; and their brothers in the South African Air Force are proving themselves no less valourous. To them we say "Good work, Good luck and Happy Landings".
