SMARK WORK!

If Mr. (something) Hitler should ever be so ill advised as to land tanks on British soil, he'll have to contend with men who can handle anti tank guns with speed that'll make his hair curl - or singe his moustache!

At this station, somewhere in England, gun crews vie with each other for the honour of being first in action after the order; and as I've seen this film before I can advise you to keep your eye on the crew nearest the camera. Oh-Oh! (Hope he enjoyed his trip.

Number one crew is first to train on the mock tank, Of course, if uninvited tanks ever come within range, these spitfires will raise such a hurricane around them, they'll be fit only for the Junkers yard!
