MAKING THEMSELVES AT HOME.

Polish soldiers in Scotland have infected the local lassies with the desire to learn a few Polish folk dances... and the girls can only do the thing properly by wearing the national costume. So the boys lead the girls a dance and the general effect is not unlike a combination of the sailors hornpipe and Booms - a - Daisy.

Voulez Vous promenade avec moi ce-soir, or words to that effect in Polish. A golden opportunity to learn a few phrases like "Look out, here comes father".

It is with regret that we say farewell to these carefree people, and catch a final glimpse of a rustic dance, typifying the persuasive powers of the Scots. The lassies have found it much easier to teach the Poles how to dance the Highland Fling.
