

008512c

40/78

YOU CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL.

Wars may come and wars may go but Lower Lanes go on for ever - but with a difference. Armed soldiers are quite likely to appear from behind a tree or hedge and demand to see your identity cards. In all parts of the country we are well guarded against fifth column activities.

Civilians too are on their toes these days. A man seated by some coastal defence works is observed by a woman shopper who suspects his letter writing. She reports the incident to a policeman in case the man may be making sketches which would aid the enemy. On investigation the constable is satisfied. Now some people may consider this rather silly but it goes to prove that there's very little chance of fifth columnists operating in this country.