GLASGOW HOME GUARD

Police pipers lead the parade as Glasgow's Home Guardsmen march to their review ground for an inspection by Mr. Ernest Brown, Secretary of State for Scotland. Following the inspection the Home Guardsmen carry out a programme of exercises, demonstrating their ability to repel enemy attack. Only a casual glance at these sturdy Scotsmen is sufficient to realise that they are well able to do that. At the final march past, Mr. Brown expresses his admiration to the men that paraded on Glasgow's big field day.
