A NEW HOME.

Evacuees, women and children of British residents in Hong Kong, reach Sydney and safety.

Arrival of these innocent victims of International Politics brings sharp realization to Australia of the uncertainty of tomorrow. In happier times, this trip to Australia would have been a holiday jaunt.

On the long journey south, these little evacuees of British Territory, in China, suffered some hardships. But memory of those days and nights of anxiety disappear as they walk down the gang plank, gateway to new happiness.

Yes, their dads will be proud of their big sons who are looking after their small brothers -just as they promised they would.
