

5-000000
40/85

TRAINING JIM CROWS.

If you want to be a good roof spotter, you have to go to school. Pilot Officer the Earl of Tankerville instructs a class in air-craft identification at a training centre. Close study is made of the various designs, so that when Jim Crow is perched in his nest on some factory roof, he will immediately establish the identity of any aircraft which may come into his range of vision. To be a qualified roof spotter is something to crow about.