THE LAST JOURNEY

A great South African goes to his rest. From his home at Newtonburgh the funeral of the late Sir Abe Bayley moves to the burial ground immediately above his estate. Hundreds of cars following the coffin speak of his immense popularity of the famous sportsman and millionaire and representatives are present from nearly every walk of life. A true patriot, Sir Abe Bayley loved the Union so deeply and sincerely he strove continuously to bring together the two races who dwelt in it. To quote General Smuts his counsel was always wise, patriotic and unselfish and invariably directed at advancing the interest of South Africa. Sir Abe Bayley's passing is a great national loss but the good he did will long be remembered.
