KING AND QUEEN TOUR MERSEYSIDE.

Among the towns visited by the King and Queen, when they make a six hour tour of Merseyside, are Birkenhead and Wallasey.

Wherever Their Majesties go ~~thru~~ they meet the same high courage. The predominant sounds during this visit were cheering crowds, wailing sirens, and cries of "We can take it Your Majesties, We can take it".

During another visit, when the King and Queen were in Liverpool, in spite of three air raid alarms, the same informal meetings and friendly chats were taking place. Its part of general conversation these days to hear the other fellow, in a voice simply bursting with excitement saying, "Blimey, come and see my place - there's nothing left."

Hitler can't win a war against people like this.
