ROOSEVELT AND WILLKIE

The streets of New York City are a dense mass of cheering people as President Roosevelt, now elected for the third time, makes his final tour. He drives through a paper snow storm, but he's weathered a worst storm than that, and is he happy. Take a look for yourself. At the same time his opponent the Republican candidate Mr. Wendell Willkie pays a last minute visit to New York's World Fair. In the world of tomorrow he faces the problems of the world today.
