

2-55/1103

UNCLE SAM'S MOSQUITO FLEET.

America's latest Naval defence units are these Mosquito Torpedo Boats. A Mosquito rampant on a torpedo rising proper, seems quite a good orest.

Leaving their moorings these mile-a-minute midgets prepare to undergo their speed tests. Their armament is four torpedoes and twin machine guns.

Against the Manhattan skyline, the Squadron prepares to open out. Designed for Harbour protection, Coastal patrol or hit and run attacks, they rather resemble our own craft used in inland waterways. Now hold everything - as thr pilots give 'em the gun.

In the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge they're just beginning to travel. Possessing an enormous cruising range, there's no fear of running out of gas, if they take a look at the Lady with the Torch.