

MORE SOUTH AFRICANS GO NORTH.

The trek of South African troops continues, and the men are glad to be one stage nearer the North African War Zone. It won't be long now before they're in the country they've heard so much about.

Just as smart as the men are the women in uniform. Assembling on the wharf is the cream of South Africa's men and womanhood, off to take part in the greatest geography lesson of all time.

Nothing can interfere with a soldier's farewell. The docks witness scores of scenes like this. Keen, laughing men and women off on a great journey.