MANCHESTER ELITZED.

When the Nazis made their ferocious aerial attack on Manchester, they adopted the now-familiar tactics of flare dropping followed by incendiary bombs. Why the flare dropping, goodness knows, for they still bomb indiscriminately!

The fire-fighting and other A.R.P. services behaved magnificently... and, despite the worst time Manchester has experienced since the outbreak of war, the people's chins are up, and protruding a little more than usual. Manchester can take it!

The beautiful Cathedral suffered; but then the Nazis have always included such targets in their list of "Military Objectives".
