

PICTURED PARAGRAPHS (Contd)

- Mr. John F. Wolfenden, Headmaster of Uppingham School, is Director of the new Air Training Corps for boys between the ages of 16 and 18, and a very busy time he is having!
6. Under Mr. Wolfenden, boys who wish to serve eventually in the R.A.F. or Fleet Air Arm, will, when required, be coached to the necessary standard, so that at 18 they can go straight to a training school to be taught flying. A grand opportunity for British boys!
7. The Emperor Haile Selassie waits near the Sudan-Abyssinian frontier. Encouraged by the news that their Emperor is close at hand, chieftains and warriors are rallying to his standard in every province in Abyssinia. Every night the war drums are sounded from the hill-tops. It may be soon that the revolt against their Italian oppressors will spread, and Haile Selassie will make good his promise, to tear down the Statue of the Wolf raised by the Fascists in Addis Ababa, and put back in its place the Lion of Judah.
8. ILLUSTRIOUS is back in port after defeating one of the most ferocious air attacks ever made upon a warship. For seven hours Goering's dive bombers made desperate attempts to sink her, but ILLUSTRIOUS hit back hard, and so continues ~~in~~ as an illustrious unit of Our Navy,
9. King Haakon of Norway visits a Naval station to inspect units of the Allied Navies, with particular interest in his Free Norwegian Sailors. British units head the March past, followed by Belgian sailors. And finally Norwegian sailors, obviously glad to be in the fight for the freedom of oppressed peoples, and the restoration of their King, and ~~the~~ deliverance of their Country from the Nazi yoke.
10. We have all learned to look up to Mr. Churchill, so by way of a change, we show the Prime Minister himself looking up at something or other (it's hush hush) in connection with the Coastal Defences, somewhere in Britain.
