TRAINING ARMY PACK HORSES.

A job of the Army Veterinary Corps is the training of pack horses, and animals for this work are gather from all parts of the Army. This old feller is receiving treatment for a spot of eye trouble. Hospital, rest home, training grounds and exercise enclosures are all to be found at the Headquarters of these noble animals. And when the time comes for them to give vent to their high spirits they really let themselves go. How they love a roll and run round.

Oh boy! I've wanted to get at that itch for a long time.

In the compound a good old limber up keeps them in good trim. And what better opportunity for a bit of bare-back riding! Men and horses love it and there's nothing they like better than a spot of "Heals up Mother Brown"

They're just like a lot of kids in the playground at Break. And if I had a hat on, I'd take it off to the grand old British War Horse.
