FREIGHTER CAPSIZES

Off the coast of Delaware rough seas claim another victim as the freighter "Ramond de Laranarga" (?) capsizes. She was carrying a cargo of pig iron and heeled over when the load shifted. Battered and helpless, the old tub is at the mercy of the breakers, until they get the load off she'll be getting nearer to Davy Jones, but she's not finished yet. The seas have been pounding her and she's settling. This part of the coast is tough at best of times. Whatever the ship's fate, that of the crew is happily certain. Of the forty nine on board only one was lost. Bad luck to lose your ship boys, but you're not downhearted, are you?
