

POLISH AIRMEN AND THEIR PRESIDENT.

The President of the Polish Republic pays a visit to an aerodrome in Britain where Polish airmen are stationed. Mr. Biddle, U.S. Ambassador to Poland accompanies President Rakzkiewicz. These flyers, than whom there are no more ~~innocent~~ heroic in the world today, have sworn to avenge the rape of their homeland... Our own men of the R.A.F. pay tribute to the bravery and determination of their Polish comrades in arms. As they take off, each pilot breathes a prayer that he may meet a German, for he knows that each Hun "clawed down from the skies" means a step nearer to the end of the war, and the freedom of the world.
