RIDING HIGH - SKIING

The first big ski meet of the season brings thousands of winter sports fans to Bear Mountain, to see some of the amateur champs take to the air. Some of them nearly take the count too. Different skiers, different ideas. Ridin' high in a fifty mile an hour gale, you've got to be cocksure of yourself to make this grade. What a power dive. It's freezin' while they're ridin' and that doesn't help much. But look at this cloud bumper, he's in the hundred foot class. Torga Tokel, twenty-one, Norse champ, is the winner again. He clears a hundred and fifty five feet, a magnificent performance.
