

2-28800

NIGHT FIGHTER

You've heard a good deal recently about our night fighters, the Hurricanes, the Beaufighters and the Defiant. Now, here is the American Douglas D.B.7, which we have adapted for the Role and called the 'Havoc'.

Contributing largely to the encouraging numbers of raiders brought down at night, the Havoc is a positive nightmare to the Nazis - it certainly lives up to its name.

One notable feature is the tricycle type landing gear. But the most outstanding factor is the men who fly them. When they're not chewing carrots, these "sats eyes" are giving the Bosche merry hell.