

AQUATIC CHARM.

Gicking the war the 'go by' for a moment, let's pretend we are sixteen again and, with the call of youth surging through our veins (you heard) visit the girls of Florida College.

The swimming team give a display worthy of many professionals.

In line ahead formation, they make for the water lanes, swimming through lush tropical lagoons, and canals lined with lily pads and Cypress. The girls present a rare picture of aquatic charm, and "for two pins I'd dive through ~~them~~ the screen and go in after them.

And when the girls get together for their famous water ballet - they give a star performance.

They've developed a swimming technique all their own and prove beyond any shadow of doubt that Beauty is more than "swim" deep.
