

PATHE GAZETTE: 41/46. (DUBLIN)

FORT LEWIS REVIEW

Uncle Sam's boys of Fort Lewis are keeping fighting fit and putting a jerk into it. It's the way they have across the pond. Bayonet practice is a big item in the training and they don't stop to say excuse me or by-your-leave. They are just sticklers when it comes to bayonets. Operations under almost active service conditions help to turn a recruit into a seasoned campaigner. Special anti-tank units equipped with 37mm. guns and they are as speedy as whippets. Watched by their Commanding Officers the men of the 9th Army Corps. make an impressive show of mechanised strength. Yes, Uncle Sam's Army is certainly getting into fine shape.