HORSE RACE

The summer racing season opens at Hollywood Park, California, with the Ten Thousand Dollar Premier Handicap. Among the big crowd at the meeting are Lana Turner and Tony Martin. A novel feature is the arming of the judges with combination field glasses and film cameras which make a record of the race. There they go, sixteen thoroughbreds in a pack. Wolf is the favourite but he's got to prove it. At every furlong post the judge records the progress of the race. Any rough riding and the film puts the jockey right on the spot. In the home straight the bunch lines out with Hysterical, Big Ben and Wilden fighting it out for the post. Hysterical forges ahead and romps home the winner. A long-shot special for Hollywood's opening day.
